Way to school:

Our way to school wasn't very long. The little farm of the Koch family is as the school in Augustenborg so the way took us 15 minutes only. So it would have been early enough to get up at 7 o'clock, but this morning was special because it was the birthday of our host mother Gitte. We wanted to help our host sister Natasha preparing the breakfast and therefore we already got up at 6 o'clock. Imke and I baked pancakes while Natasha put plates and her presents on the table. She gave her mother beauty things like a mirror or a blouse. The breakfast took us very much time because we celebrated the birthday. Finally, we drove to school at 7:30 o'clock.

~On the side: The way the Danish open their boxed drinks is quite funny for us: They open it without a cap; they just rip the packages of. When we wanted to drink milk at Monday morning we were wondering how to open those. We turned the packages around for five times and searched for the cap. Confusing. ~

At school/after school programme:

The first thing happening after we arrived was a short tour by the Danish students through their school. In one hour, we walked around the whole "Augustenborg Skole", so we saw every corner of this big building.

About 9 o'clock the tour was finished and we drove into a forest to the nature school "Nygård". It is a countryside place with a few old houses near to a stone beach. In the house where we worked this day, there were just four long wooden benches and two tables.

Outside we had to build big towers out of straws in little group of four people. We made a challenge out of this: The group that built the highest tower was the winner.

A group building the straw tower

After that we should imagine building a holiday resort with the same group we made the straw towers with. This big task was parted into small steps: First we wrote down what we already knew about holiday parks. Then we wrote down what we didn't know about it and we thought about how we could get this missing knowledge. After finishing this task the six small groups were put together into three bigger groups and we discussed what should be in our amusement park because the exercise for the next day was to build a model of our imagined park. The program ended at 02:30 pm so we were back home at 03:15 pm.

Afternoon and free time:

As I already wrote the 26th of April is the birthday of our host mother Gitte and this is the reason why a friend of Natasha, Lærke and her guests from this project Tomke, Jeelka (from Rhaderfehn) and Vidur (from Vienna) wanted to visit us in the evening. In the afternoon we prepared the house for our guests. At one point Imke, Janik and I were surprised: In Denmark there is the tradition of decorating the houses with Danish flags. Natasha laid a blanket printed with many little Danish flags on the table, she stuck four flags into the lamp and she put a few little models of the flag on the table. The first time we saw this we were very confused and after we told Natasha, she was wondering about us because decorating the house like this is a normal thing to her. A few minutes later our friends arrived and we ate something. After that we talked to each other for a pretty long time. We all just sat around the table and enjoyed spending our time together until quarter past ten.
