Today was the first day of our week in Vienna. It was a long and hard day with great experiences.

In the morning, all people of the Erasmus+ project met in the music room and the students got an overview of what we were going to do the whole week and the teachers introduced themselves. After that the students from Vienna showed us their school and then we went to the gym where we played games to get to know each other better. Then we had a break where the teachers gave us snacks and after eating, we had we had our first 'lesson'. For that we built two groups. In the lesson we had, we talked about how tourism is defined. So, our first task was to say why we travel. We talked about this with partners and for the second task, we did it in groups. In these groups, we got a worksheet with different definitions of tourism.

At 12 o'clock, we left the school to make a bus tour with Blaguss, the second biggest bus company in Austria, to the zoo of Schönbrunn. There was a man who told us about the zoo and how important tourism is for the zoo. The man also showed us an ape who's very famous in the internet like facebook. After the presentation, we've had lunch there. The vegetarians had tortellini and the others had beef. When we finished lunch, we had time to visit the zoo. We didn't have that much time which was kind of bad. We split up in groups which wanted to see the same animals. I wanted to see the pandas which the men mentioned before, so I went there with 4 other students.

At 3 o'clock, we went back to the bus where a lady was waiting for us. We had a bus tour through Vienna that we continued in the city. Personally, I think it was not that good, because the woman didn't say much about the city itself and you had to know facts about Vienna before the tour. That wasn't that good. But I also think that the information was interesting, and it was nice to see much of the city.

The tour ended at TimeTravel. This is a kind of a museum which told tells you the whole history of Vienna. There were a 5D cinema and doll which can move. After the museum, we just went back to school and then back home to rest. That was the first day in Vienna.
